CURLEY TO KILL 2-PLATOON ORDER

Mayor Curley will veto the two-platoon order for the firemen, if it is passed this year by the City Council. He will, however, approve the order in 1924.

He said today: "The department must be motorized. It is 55 per cent. motorized at present. It will cost $250,000 to buy the remaining apparatus needed. The new housing must also be built. That will cost $150,000 more. Only one out of five of the firehouses has been remodeled to comply with the fire laws.

"There is no argument against the two-platoon system except expense, and there is no reason why the firemen should be compelled to shoulder what ought to be placed on the entire community."

The Mayor estimated that the city would also soon have to spend $1,000,000 for a new police headquarters and at least $500,000 for new police stations.

PROBE IF GIRLS' POLICE PATROL RIDE ASKED

Declaring that he would demand of Police Commissioner Wilson an investigation of the taking into custody of the girls detained by Patrolmen Frank J. Sullivan and James Long.

According to the girls, they "left the rooms of the Wards 13-14 Democratic headquarters, No. 116 Tremont street, to interview Representative Gleason in regard to employment. They were seated in chairs waiting for the representative to arrive. When the officers entered the room and, the girls say, forced them to walk to the patrol box."

THOUGHT IT WAS JOKE.
"We thought the officers were joking when they first came into the room where we were waiting to see Mr. Gleason about a job," said Barbara Krommiller today.

"There were two men in the room, and it wasn't even dark outside. Officer Sullivan walked in and demanded to know what we were doing. Without further ceremony, he grabbed us each by the arm and walked us to the street."

Alice Hurrell said: "He accused me of stealing when we demanded a reason for our arrest, but he would give no particulars."

"We both began to cry as we heard the police box and a crowd gathered who knew us. They assured the officers we were all right and offered to take us home but the officers would not let us go."

"The patrol wagon came and we were shoved in like ordinary little crooks. At Station 10 we were locked in a room alone. They accused us of selling moonshine at the Democratic Club. Of course we knew nothing of any kind."

LOCKED UP IN ROOM.
"After more than an hour and a half that seemed like two whole days to us, locked in the police station, Mr. Gleason came and got us out."

"Both of the girls' families are determined justice shall be done and a full explanation or apology be obtained for the indignity inflicted on them."

"I never shall forget the horror of that long ride in the police patrol," said winsome little Barbara Krommiller. "If Hurrell is not so nothing more to do than to arrest her own husband, he'd better fire his police force."

Germany Will Not Bow to Force, Says Cuno
Copyright, 1923, by International News Service.

Berlin, Jan. 8.—Germany is considering the advisability of breaking off diplomatic relations with France the moment French troops enter the Ruhr, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

German officials gave the impression that if France enters the Ruhr and the Westphalian industrial belt the government will issue a proclamation charging that the Treaty of Versailles has been rendered null and void by France.

One opinion is that this would leave Germany in the same position she was in immediately following the armistice and precipitate a state of war. The latter view seemed to be gaining ground. Germany was reported to be drafting an appeal to the situation in the Versailles.

3,600 MEN BATTLE SNOW IN BOSTON; STORM COSTS CITY $100,000

STREET SWEPT IN PLUS

The Public Works Department has covered with ice, snow or slush, according to the degree of the weather, the streets of the city.

Mayor Curley puts Every Available Man to Work in Clearing Flooded Highways

Boston and environs slipped and scattered today along streets covered with ice, snow or slush, according to the degree of the weather.

The Public Works Department of Boston continued its efforts on the downtown streets, while only the sections were cleared.

Meanwhile in other sections of the city, the streets were covered with ice, snow or slush, according to the degree of the weather.

The estimated cost of the expense of removing the accumulated snow is to $100,000. The men and equipment on the snow job for the day at Boston included:

Two thousand and five hundred men from Public Works Department of city.

Six hundred and eighty men of private contractors.

Five hundred men of Boston Elevated.

One hundred and forty men of the city.

Forty city teams.

Sixty-two contractors' trucks.

Forty city trucks.

OPEN WAY TO HOSPITALS.

Major Curley said: "Every available man who could be spared to the Public Works Department and all its branches was clearing snow from the streets."

Lanes for traffic and fire department were cleared on all main streets by motor-driven snow blowers, especially up Parker and Cambridge streets on top of which large hospitals are located.

For the first time in Boston history six large snowplows, recently installed on Atlantic avenue, as well as those on Charlestown Bridge, were used for snow clearing. Work was concentrated on the downtown streets, especially on the main thoroughfares.

Many Festivities Planned For Smart Set "Debs" This Week, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

Day by day, every day, the "debs" are giving parties, dinners, and teas.

No Apologies to Cousin.

If anyone thought that the debs were going to "call it a season" after a hectic November and December, then anyone was thoroughly mistaken.

For the overwhelming majority of the "just-out" contingent, though, mayhap a bit breathless, are entering into January's festivities with undiminished pep.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hollis Hill of Commonwealth avenue, opened the week's merry whirl with a dance at the University Club for their daughter, Miss Mildred Hill.

Tonight comes the dance which the J. Lee Stockpiles are giving out at their Beacon street home for Miss Elizabeth Stockpile.

For whom a series of dances and dinners are being given.

Pretty, dark-haired Margery Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Richardson, is to be the honor guest at a ball which Mr. Roydon Deal is holding to-morrow night at the Chilton Club.

This mid-week affair promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the season for Miss Richardson is one of the season's most popular Junior League girls.

Needless to say, not a few important dinners will precede the dances. Also tomorrow night comes the dance which the Francis W. Parsons are giving at their Brookline home for their daughter, Miss Ellen Bacon.

The family has also had dinner connections, so that Miss Bacon has taken part in a number of dinners.

The week closes with plenty of "balls" for the debs.

On Friday night at the Somers, Miss Frances Wald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wald, is giving on Friday night at the Somers.

For their fair-haired daughter, Miss Frances Wald.

Lawrence, Jan. 9.—The Pacific Mills, regarded as one of the most conservative corporations in the country, today announced plans for a radical treatment of labor difficulties.

The plan includes the election by the 3,200 operatives of a committee of eleven which will deal directly with the mill management in all matters of interest to the employees.

The committee will be elected from the operatives themselves by means of Australian ballots, which will be distributed January 11. Elections will follow January 17, at which each of the five departments will be represented.

In announcing the plans, Irving Southworth, agent for the mills in Lawrence, stated that it was not expected to end all labor difficulties by this method.

Pacific Mills are also located in Dover, N. H., and Columbia, S. C., but the plan will be tried first only in Lawrence.

Atlantic City.—Freely Ness, former wife of Harry K. Ness, III, with double pneumonia, passed comfortably last night, Russell Thaw, her twenty-year-old son, at his bedside almost instantly.

HOUSE CURRENT FOR TUBES IN AMPLIFIER

A method by which ordinary house current may be used to light amplifier tubes has just been perfected.

The chief advantage of the scheme is that an ordinary bell-ringing transformer having six to nine volt taps may be used successfully.

It is impossible at present to light amplifier tubes in this way, and a slight whistle will be heard when it is used for the amplifier tubes. Several stages of either radio-frequency and audio-frequency may be employed with this transformer.

The secret of avoiding the hum in the potentiometer, which taps off the current between the five and six volt of the alternating current. The grounding of one side of the rheostat also tends to stabilize the circuit. If it is possible, the core of the bell-ringing transformer should also be grounded.

If this circuit is used, it is advisable to put a fuse in the tubes, as all toy transformers are not always exact in regard to voltage. The five volt tap may be used, but it is not the nine-volt tap should be used.

The drain on the house current supply is very slight, and it will be found to be much cheaper than running a storage battery. It is a better with a look speaker than with a phonograph.

(A method of simplifying with a crystal set has been outlined with a diagram.)

WATER GARDEN SHOW PACKS MAJESTIC

What is a little show when "Oh, What a Girl" hits town. Nothing at all, if the sentiments of those who witnessed the opening performance of this stellar Winter Garden musical are expressed at the Majestic Theatre are interpreted correctly.

It is a laugh from start to finish, and as for musical hits, and dancing, one would have to work hard to list them all. "Oh, What a Girl" was written by Edgar Smith and staged by Lew Murtin.

The Kido brothers, Al and Harry, and the Manhattan Trio, composed of Ben Jackson, Harry Rosedale and Max Rosedale, are the last of the many features of the show. Songs aplenty and fun galore surrounded them while they performed.

Irma Bertrand, Marie Blodgett, Mervyn Joe, Jeanne Steels and the Wilson sisters all add to the beauty of the settings, and that is saying a whole lot.

Week's Features

MODERN AND BEACON—"Notre-Dame" and Len Chaney in "Plein and Blaise" also stars in "The Electric House." There's a new reel too.

FAIR—"Douglas Fairbanks, in 'Robin Hood,' continues his popularity at this theatre. Romance and athletics make it an engaging entertainment.

SPARKLES WITH BRILLIANCE

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

Whatever the fashion may be in musical comedy—and it is no great secret that a new pattern is being set—let us hope that Broadway measure with weekly regularity, you may take it from an old-timer in the front row that "Molly Darling" is not less than three jumps ahead of the most recent and final style in that kind of entertainment. Whether you want to believe it or not, Jack Donahue and a group of fellow entertainers with syncretized feet and wholesome voices made it clear at the Tuesday last evening that the spirit of jazz still prevails and that world dancing is sinking into no perfunctory section. The show was a triumph for feet that never tire.

SPEED AND RHYTHM.

For speed, rhythm and well-balanced entertainment "Molly Darling" will hold its own against anything that is likely to break out in the theatre during this or any other season, and if the tune that "Molly Darling" has not on everybody's lips by the end of the week you may check it up in your diary that virtue is a fact of things and there is no hope for a happy future.

On form alone "Molly Darling" presented a strong claim for the best of approval that filled the theatre with its noisy enthusiasm. Tunes and melodies and humor that exhaled with brilliant clarity choked the audience into submission. From the rise of the curtain there was not a dull moment, and always lurking somewhere about in the score was a surprise that seemed likely to sweep you off your feet. As a combination of good music, at least, engaging melody—and a story of more than passing interest, admirably played, this newest of musical plays has much to commend it to those who enjoy novelty on their evenings out.

DAVANCE A JOY.

Since his last appearance here Mr. Donahue has blossomed into a dancing joy. It was impossible to resist the appeal he made to your sense of humor, whether in his eccentric dancing or in his scintillating chatter, and he took on all the outward signs of a new star about ready to flare forth in the theatrical firmament. As a reward for his gifts to "Molly Darling" might easily expect that much more.

While Mr. Donahue filled a large space in the evening, he could not well afford to tarry along the route for his paces under, too, were rarely gifted in similar ways. Billy Taylor, it appears, had feet that could interpret jazz music, and Clarence Nordstrom and Jay Gould fitted admirably into the comedy events. Mary Milburn, who added grace, beauty and a good voice to the performance, proved herself a tower of strength to the cultural side of the evening.

"Molly Darling" was rich in the qualities that make musical plays worth while. It abounded in novelty. The book by Jack Donahue and Duncan surpassed the average work of its kind by a wide margin, and Tom Johnston's music was the whitening kind, gorgeously staged and costumed, with the deft hand of Julian Mitchell indicated in many ways. "Molly Darling" has every reason to settle down into a nice, long visit.

"KICK IN" FEATURE AT LOEW'S STATE

"Kick In," a picture of the state success of the same title by Willard Mack, in which Betty Compson and Bert Lytell are featured, proved an unusual attraction at Loew's State Theatre. This delightfully entertaining crock drama has lots of action and many thrills. The companion picture presented Agnes Ayres in her latest vehicle, "Daughter of Luxury." In this picture Miss Ayres essays a role so unique as to make the picture different from any story hitherto filmed. Her role is that of a girl reared in luxury and who is suddenly left destitute. She accepts a life of a beggar and a keen sense of humor, and drama and comedy are admirably mixed.

Buddy Keaton, the robaud-comedian, was especially funny in his latest picture, "The Electric House." A new pictorial was also shown.

SOMERVILLE PLAY WELL RECEIVED

The Somerville Playhouse gave an excellent demonstration of their adaptability by two remarkable performances of "East Side-West Side" at the Somerville Theatre. The play in many ways is a counterpart of the successful comedy, "Oh, What a Girl." The plot has to do with the crashing of social conditions and the love of a poor young girl of the East Side for an aristocratic young man of the West Side.

The members of the company were admirably assigned to the different roles. Especially noteworthy with Ann Hamilton and Harry Bond, whose impersonation of the leading characters could hardly be improved upon.

Coming Plays

"The Peeping Show of 1922," with Eugene and Willie Howard will move into the Hubert next Monday for a limited engagement of three weeks.

"Just Married," with Vivian Martin, Agnes across star, and Louise Overman, spirited comedian, will be the attraction at the Plymouth next week.

Pauline Frederick (in person) will take up her professional show at the Belvoir next Monday as the star in A. H. Woods' production of "The Queen." Ruth B. Dene, with Ted Starn, and the Dandahans dancers will give a single performance at the Boston Opera House on Wednesday evening, January 17.

The announcement is made that the Belvoir is now organizing a special company to present Channing Polier's play, "The Fool" in Boston. It is planned to have this company begin its local engagement in February.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With Berbo Compound

Mrs. E. H. Boos, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it very black and glossy with this simple process, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water, add a little of Berbo Compound and a ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is dark and glossy. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It makes a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

Mulsified Coconut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can possibly injure the hair in any way.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then massage your hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It will make your hair shine and keep it healthy. The Mulsified hair soap thoroughly. The Mulsified hair soap is a very clean and healthy. You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last several months in the family. Be sure your drugstore gives you Mulsified.

BOYSCOUTS OF AMERICA CASTLE AND GUSTIN ARE FAVORITES IN TRIPLE A BOUTS

PLENTY OF ACTING IN THESE BOUTS. BY JACK CONWAY.

Match a winner with a winner and you get a contender and a heated heart. Of course the vanquished is sometimes one of those game birds who dares defeat itself and eventually pounds his way out from again. But in this case out of ten the boys who receive the bumps seldom reach a championship throne.

A flock of winners will collide at the Armory A's banner fistic offering at the Great Opera House tonight. This will mean contenders; also a few broken hearts. But it was always thus whether the game was chess or pop 'em on the chin.

Mike Castle, pride of Lawrence, and Tommy Nee of South Boston are the young men who today in the final ten-round number, Castle has been going so good that even Young Kibby has to call him Mister as they pass in Lawrence. The other evening Mike got a little bit excited and so headed on a sweet victory over Danny Edwards.

Castle has an idea he is going to be the future bantam champion and so does not intend to permit New or anybody else to upset the victory. He is a natural fighter and in good style, Castle may receive an upset this time.

Castle and Nee have both announced that there is no need for Paddy Owens to seek a match with Frankie Mason. The victor of tonight's quarter will be the victor to accommodate Owens. The Armory Club would then be glad to fight the winner of such a quarter against Mason.

There is also quite a lot of interest in the ten-round meeting between Steve Gustin of South Boston and Johnny Fox of Woburn. When this fight is over, Gustin will have a headline. Fox has been around the ring much like Johnny Dundee and he will be well up enough points to entice the aggressive and hard hitting South Boston youth.

Frankie Johnson, West End youth who knocked out Tibbs Lawrey at Lynn, will parade forth in action with Frankie Ryan in a rapid ten-rounder. Ryan is a rapid performer, but he will not travel faster than he can keep out of the way of the Johnson. The Armory Club would then be glad to fight the winner of such a quarter against Mason.

Steve Willard is being presented into another match with Jack Dempsey. We don't believe "Fighting" Willard will have any objections to knocking the former cowboy over again. The pickles have been mighty poor but the champion and he has the least bit particular when he is as long as the other fellow can stand up long enough to get in the way of a few healthy wallop.

Before Willard is allowed to meet Dempsey, he should be first obliged to engage in a tryout bout with a suitable opponent. Harry Wille, of course, would make the best possible opponent for such a tryout. The winner would then be the logical man to pit against Dempsey.

As a Dempsey-Willard match, it is very unlikely that Willard will be very much interested in the fight. He is more on the case with Willard, however. It is a fight that will be a knockout for the winner. The winner of the Brennan-Johnson bout which takes place Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Willard is fast and not in condition for a real ring battle at this time. But with a little training, Willard would probably be able to get into good enough shape to head over some of the possible junk which is cluttering up the heavyweight division.

Willard's only reason for starting a comeback is to extract money from the public. Of course this is true of most fighters who swap under under the calendar. It is more on the case with Willard, however. It is a fight that will be a knockout for the winner. The winner of the Brennan-Johnson bout which takes place Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Jack Dempsey would probably fight regardless of what compensation there was in it for him. He is a natural fighter and gives the game for the thrill it gives him. He is a natural fighter and gives the game for the thrill it gives him.

Babe Ruth would play half even if he had to do so with small kids. Babe Ruth would take part in semi matches if barred from the big tournaments. Charlie Tolt would swim even if there was no recognition by the public.

Jack Dempsey, on the other hand, would never put on a boxing glove if it were not for the money that comes in at the box office. This is why the sporting world has so little enthusiasm about Jack Dempsey. He is an unrepentant cheat, a money grubber, too strong and big to fight during the war, a streetwise real prizefighter, a result everybody gave three cheers when Dempsey knocked him for a new of cash at Toledo.

DOLLY SISTERS
HEAD BIG KEITHBILL

The Dolly sisters, the twins of international fame, head a bill this week at R. F. Keith's which can be described only by an extravagant use of superlatives. The program can be truthfully called an all-star show.

There is not a dull moment in the whole bill, and as for variety, there is everything from a single ring circus act to marionettes.

The famous sisters, assisted by Harry Richmond, and "Brother" Dolly, present a picturesque series of dances and songs, depicting in turn the Jazz era, "Apache Torture

Don't miss "Pony Trot" and a "Tom Tom Dance."

Al Homan, another Boston favorite, with his inimitable black face chatter, and his "explosions" of the previous acts, keeps the audience in a constant titter. Gracie Daugh and Jack Mack are a pair who also "went big" in the laughter line.

Alice Hamilton, supplied more comedy in the role of an amphetamine country woman.

Other turns deserving of comment were the Gracie, Kyrle comedians, Paul and Gus in "The Co-Wade," Sampson, Leonard & Co. in "After the Polo Game," Schmitt's marionettes, and an equestrian act by James Dutton & Company.

To Speak in Concord
 Professor Douglas Crawford, of the English department of the College of Business Administration of Boston University, will speak on the Near Eastern situation at the Concord High School forum of January 19.

ENTERMADAME PLEASES AT ST. JAMES

Vicarious Adelyn Bushnell as Madame Lina Dela Robbin in "Enter Madame," at the St. James. Displayed in no uncertain manner her right to attention in the Boston Stock Company.

In "Enter Madame," the merry little comedy, Miss Bushnell might have been Mary Garden or Geraldine Farrar, having the full moods and whims that keep everybody, especially her husband, in despair.

She is a woman of spirit and she captivates the hearts of all who know her and who watch the husband from whom she was divorced.

Miss Bushnell was admirably supported by Edward Dwyer, Ralph Remley, Lucille Adams, Harold Chase, Houston Richards and Mark Kent.

"PEG O' MY HEART"
ON SCREEN NOW

Laurette Taylor, who won the hearts of a million people with her famous characterization of the delightful "Peg" in J. M. Harlowe's "Peg O' My Heart," is again seen in her celebrated role, this time in screen form at Loew's Orpheum Theatre.

Miss Taylor's Peg is a brilliant contribution to screen artistry.

Writing with Miss Taylor in popularity and heading the vaudeville bill was Grace Cameron, a popular musical comedy star, who was the original Dolly Dimplesgirl. In artistic character and inspiration, she was ably assisted at the piano by little Dixie Lee, Barbara Groh and company, later of "Tinkles" company were most pleasing in "A Pan-American Dance Spectacle."

Other acts were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips, offering a satire entitled "The Hymenism"; Rother and Gould in "So-So Am I"; Jerome and France, the youngest American opera singers in vaudeville; and the Welles trio in spectacular frolics. Theater Keaton proved exceedingly funny in his comedy picture "The Electric House." A news pictorial was also shown.

Two Lynn Nurses Beaten by Girl

FIGHTS 2, IS PUT IN JAIL CELL

Institution Refuses to Take Her Back After She Attacks Attendants

June McNewin, attractive
New York "girl of mystery," who was the victim of an alleged attack after being found in a semi-conscious condition in a snow bank, fought two nurses in the Lynn hospital and punished them until they ran
from the ward.

For this reason Miss Veen Allen,
the superintendent of the hospital, refused today to allow the girl to return to the institution. "The hospital head files Mayor Hurlan A. Mc-Pherson, who virtually ordered that the girl be taken from a cell in the Lynn police station and taken to the institution.

In defense of her stand, Miss Allen declares that the girl is not in need of medical treatment, and declares that the girl is afflicted only with a violent temper.

Mayor McPherson insists the girl is in a serious condition and says she should have constant medical attention.

Meanwhile the girl is in the Lynn cell under the care of police matron,
Mrs. Anne Mangin.

According to Superintendent Allen, the girl fought the two nurses when they attempted to put her into a straitjacket. "She jumped from the bed," Miss Allen says, "punched right and left and drove the nurses
from the ward."

Today the "mystery girl" told of her earlier life. According to her story to Miss Mangin, the girl was educated in a parochial school in New York city and is an accomplished musician, due to of evident refinement and is not an adventuress as was first believed when she was found by the police in the home of Elmer M. Doolan, the man who had previously picked her up in the snow bank.

According to the police matron the girl's only trouble is worry over the fact that she believes she will not be able to face her friends.

GIVES SELF UP ON PLEA OF SWEETHEART

Edward J. Barrigan of Gloucester found member of the gang charged with robbery.

The girl, who is now in the New England Baking Co. factory, was found on the night of Jan. 7, 1922, in a semi-conscious condition in a snow bank. She was taken to the hospital, where she was treated for a broken arm and a concussion of the head.

She gave him self up to Inpector Curtis
of the Gloucester police, and is said to have surrendered after harkening
to the entreaties of his sweetheart, a Gloucester girl.

Barrigan was arraigned before Judge Sisk in Superior Court today and held in $20,000 bonds for a further hearing.

WANTS POPE TO DIVORCE MISS ORAPER

Paris, Jan. 9.—It is reported here that Prince Boncompagni, one of the most illustrious of the princes of Rome, is now en route to the Vatican in the hope of securing the annulment of his marriage to the former Margaret Draper of Washington.

The fact that the prince will visit the Vatican will militate against the success of his appeal, as it would create a prejudice in the attitude of the church against dissolution of marriage bonds.

In Catholic circles here it is pointed out that even Marquis Boni di Castellane's recent appeal for the annulment of his marriage to Anna Gould was refused on the ground that marriage of Catholics could not be annulled unless the contracting parties had not lived together, and then only for extraordinary reasons.
The prince is living quietly at the Villa Horta here.

GROSVENOR, FORMER CASHIER, ON TRIAL

The trial of Edward H. Grosvenor former cashier of Winchester National Bank, accused of misappropriation of funds, and Joseph Adams of Manchester, alleged to be an accomplice, started today before Judge Peabody in United States Court.

The government alleges that the books were manipulated to show an overdraft of $1,000 when in reality more than $40,000 had been withdrawn.

4 MURDER MALDEN BLAST

Explosion in Paint Manufacturing Plant

A cauldron of varni exploded today, resulting in injuries to three employees and one fireman, and driving 150 men and women sure hose.

When the explosion occurred Miss Christine Malone, telephone switchboard operator, stuck to her post, calling the Malden fire department and summoning the emergency fire apparatus maintained by the factory.
Until the firemen arrived she personally directed emergency measures.

Damage was estimated at $12,000.
Several other buildings of the company, adjoining the one in which the explosion occurred, were threatened.

3-ALARM FIRE IN CAMBRIDGE CANDY PLANT

A three-alarm fire today caused heavy damage in the William Hien candy factory and store at
No. 493 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, and tied up all traffic through Central square at a rush period.

Two large furniture establishments in adjoining buildings were threatened.

Slightly more than 100 girl workers, barred from entering the factory, watched the flames. The alarm was discovered just before the earliest ones arrived.

The blaze started from unknown cause in the basement and worked up through two floors. The building is four stories and of brick construction.

Great clouds of smoke hung over the Central square section, giving rise to rumors of a far more serious fire ravaging the business district of Cambridge.

Nickerson's shoe store at No. 495
Massachusetts avenue, the Henry W. Berry shoe company, the William Scott tea and coffee store and the George E. Pryor furniture company suffered smoke damage.

POTTER ANSWERS PASTOR CRITICS

Elmer C. Potter, Federal prohibition director, today replied to the charges of lack of energy and ac-tiveness leveled at him by the Evangelical Alliance of Boston, which also asked for his removal from office.

"I read the charges," Mr. Potter said, "and I went home and had the best night's sleep I've had in a long time."

"What may interest my attackers, and that is the only thing I will make a point of."

WIFE REFUSES TO LET MURDER HUSBAND QUIT PRISON

Boston police are today searching for "Baby Doll" Baker, who, it is believed, left the city following the publication of the "heart throbs" letters which she received from Patrolman John ("Terry") Mc-Govern.

The girl is sought so that the police may get from her a first-hand story of the love affair which existed for months between her and the patrolman, a married man and father of four children, who resigned from the police force yesterday.

From a reliable source it was learned that the police authorities will not be content in letting the patrolman escape with a simple reprimand. From this source it was indicated that the reprimand will be refused and the patrolman will be forced to stand trial for his alleged misdoings.

It was learned that the girl was found guilty by a police trial board but will be demonstrably dismissed from the department. It is also probable that she will be prosecuted in the courts for his abuse of the "love force."

We met at a party in Boston.
Three months later we were married. I was then her heart's true lover. But you never let me see her. You told me that she was dead. But she was not dead. She was in the hospital. She was waiting for me. She was waiting for me. She was waiting for me.

"I don't believe he wrote all that stuff," she continued. "It couldn't sound like him. He was never so stupid. We have been married before. All that time he has been a kind, wonderful man.
He makes up his mind, he acts.
But you never let me see what a woman of that sort will make of a girl. What could she want?
I will stick by him until I have absolute proof of his relations with such a woman," she declared.

AMOROUS COP PLEADS WITH "BABY DOLL" IN LETTERS

More of the love letters of Patrolman John McGovern to "Baby Doll" Baker are made public today. Some of the passages read:

"My Darling Mamma:
"How do you do, my beautiful Mamma of mine. How are you feeling in this terrible weather? Generally I feel all day Thursday
it rained like hell all day Thursday and all day today and I was out in it quite a lot today.

"Gee, Mamma, I hope you didn't have to be out in that kind of rain today. I hope you didn't get my little red-headed Muggie going around the grounds out there without rubber on her feet. I hope you didn't get my little red-headed Muggie go-"

"By the way, how are those poor, poor toes that were blighted and pinched from so much walking?"

From toes "Terrible Terry" switched to freckles thusly:

"Say, my white-browed, freckled face now, I am freckled, but very freckled, almost to the extent of being ugly, so strong is my love and feeling for you just now. But I don't dare to let you see that I am freckled. I hope you don't mind or upon your frame, or upon somebody else's rights."

"WAITING YOUR ORDERS."
The course of love failed to run smooth for the Romeo cop, so he pleaded plaintively:

"Well, my darling, I can only say that if I ever get to the station in life wherein I viewed you with anyone near the amount of love that you give me, I would call a strike. The doctors have already said to me that I am suffering from a heart ailment, but I don't think I am over-enthusiastic. I do love you with a whole heart."

President McGovern issued his challenges when the Cotton Manufacturers Association announced that the demand for a wage increase could not be met under present conditions because "capital will not take the risk of business depression. Southern competition and other necessities."

The talk about shutting down
mills is referred to by President Mc-Govern as "the same old businessmen from time immemorial by manufacturers to frighten those who are weak and fearful."

Appointed Chaplain
Mayor Curley today appointed Rev. William H. Grant chaplain to the Boston Aquarium. Mr. Grant, at a salary of $1,100, will take the place of the late Rev. J. J. Burke, resigned. John Sullivan was appointed a nurse at $1,000 a year at the same institution.

"I don't think I am over-enthusiastic. I do love you with a whole heart. I am waiting your orders or instructions as to when I might have the honor of your association in person."

"You must appear as my messenger, and see how in the most humble and feeble way I always come back to my mamma."

ISN'T IT WONDERFUL?
I hope that is the way.
"How wonderful it is to love one person in such reverence and admiration as to enable one to pay attention to the minutest details of the mind, knowing well how easy and still easier it will be to offend and offend by that one darling's responsive and susceptible heart. It is indeed the most wonderful amount of forbearance and pity or compassion for the most or most of marks to receive and finally."

"I was after one of my 'Mug' letters that a rift in the romance developed and he criticized Baby Doll as fickle."

"Well, I don't know, here is Friday evening and I am ready to go to work. I went to the restaurant to see how the square really was and what the food was like. I was very much interested in the fact that the food was so good. Are you just as tired and tired of being bothered by the fact that I am so tired? I hope it is not, but I hope it is not, but I hope it is not, but I hope it is not."

A CHANGE OF HEART.
"Don't lose me around, and try to see me down light. I can stand about any old smash now. I'm kind of a little bit of a smash now. I'm kind of a little bit of a smash now.

Pitter and Patter Discuss Their Lively Vodville on Dreams

By Nat N. Dorfman

PITTER—I haven't been able to sleep a wink lately. PATTY—What's the matter with you? Didn't you fill out your income tax? PITTER—Oh, it's nothing like that. I'm disturbed by a dream. PATTY—How much does she weigh? PITTER—How much does who weigh? PATTY—This dream of yours. PITTER—You've got me all wrong. Pat. I'm not spilling my beauty nap over a woman. PATTY—Most men usually do, you know—before they're married. PITTER—And after they're married? PATTY—They're not home often enough to go to bed. But tell me, what sort of a dream has been disturbing your sleep? PITTER—Oh, I've been dreaming a rich uncle of mine died in

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston American will pay for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston American.

One Sunday afternoon my little cousin, Esther, aged eight, and a little girl friend of hers about the same age, called on me. It was in the Fall, before my heat was on, and I had a gas heater in my living room. After removing their coats and hats they entered the room and little Esther spied the gas heater. Going over to examine the said, "Cousin Belle, what is this?" Before I could answer her little friend replied, rather indignantly, "Why, Esther, any one would know that's a toaster."

ROMEO TO DATE

By Les Conklin.

SWEETHEART with the laughing eyes little angel in disguise, Before I ask your heart and hand There's something I must understand.

Excuse my frankness, dear, I beg, But tell me—can you try an egg? By your shy, envious glance I'm enthralled, your smiles entrance.

I loved you then, I love you still; If you'll darn my sock I swear I will.

Dear heart, I hate to coax and wheedle, But tell me—can you thread a needle?

Dear, you set my heart ablaze, Synops of Venus you resemble, You're a stunning dresser, too, All the girls envy you, The world's your oyster when you dance; But can you—could you pass my pants?

Australia left me a cool milk lion.

PATTY—That's a hot dream, alright. And have you a rich uncle in Australia?

PITTER—No, the sad part of it is I haven't even a poor one there. All the poor ones seem to live in the neighborhood, so they don't have to go far to borrow money.

PATTY—Well, then, why don't you forget about it? Don't you know, only fools take stock in dreams?

PITTER—Yes, I remember well how you moved about the dream you were engaged to.

PATTY—I was young then and couldn't tell the difference between a dream and a night-mare.

PITTER—But, tell me, don't you think dreams over come true?

PATTY—Oh, yes, I know a fellow once who dreamt he was a Paradise and when he woke up the next morning he found his wife had divorced him!

LAFFS IN THE NEWS

CABLE from Paris tells of wire hair being introduced by noted French hairdresser. Looks like a new crop of walking radio stations.

A young Philadelphian essayed the role of Sir Walter Raleigh and placed his overcoat at the disposal of a fair miss in distress. Both vanished. Chivalry makes a poor blanket these cold days.

Headline: "Chinese Eager to Copy Ways From America." Now taking their "cut" from us.

Man moved $10,000 on $20 a week. The first ten years must have been the hardest.

Russian Presents Have Watermelon in Winter, reads headline. Just our luck. We have ours in Summer, when they're no rariety to be had.

Pekin dispatch says Chinese lose heads while sleeping on railroad tracks. Revolutionaries lose their heads daily on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. It, but sleeping is out of the question.

TRY TO GET IT

WANTED: A man to open oysters on a bicycle.

WANTED: A lady's second-hand wrist watch that will fit a 376 pound man. One without chains preferred.

WANTED: Man to act as outway guard. Must have had four years' experience at college football and be able to speak unintelligibly to anyone. Stenographer not required.

WANTED: Expert checker player for barber shop. Must know how to shave, but needn't be an expert. Expected to play a good game with boss barber in spare hours.

WANTED: A bright young man to take a census of the number of ex-drinkers who since prohibition have exclaimed at least 2,000,000 times, "Gosh, when I think of how often I said, 'Pass me by this time, bartender!'"

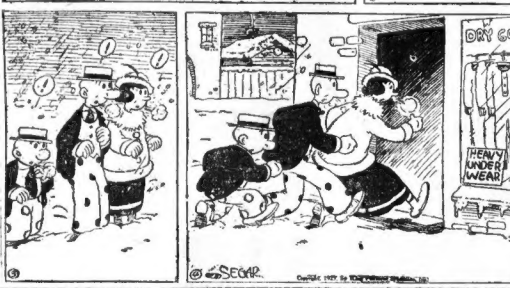

WANTED: Somebody who never bragged about knowing Mr. Volstead.

Teutonic Disrespect.

Mrs.—It says here that Shakespeare is performed more often in Germany than in his native country.

Mr.—Yes; the Germans evidently still have no respect for things English.

SUN YAT SEN'S ARMY REPULSED

London, Jan. 8.—A Reuters dispatch from Shanghai reports that the Cantonese troops have driven back the Constitutionalists advancing from Wuhan. The correspondent asserts that heavy fighting is expected soon.

Sun Yat-Sen, deposed president of the South Chinese Republic, said in an interview yesterday that he expected his army to retake Canton within a fortnight, restoring him to power in the south. Sun's troops recently took Wuhan.

SULPHUR CLEARS A BLEMISHED SKIN

Apply Menthos-Sulphur as Told
When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthos-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and expensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Menthos-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

Let Coalition of Nations Halt French Aggression

America Could Initiate This Without Sacrificing Her Traditional Independence and Isolation

DURING the early progress of the late great war the Hearst papers made strenuous efforts to bring the war to an end and suggested that the neutral nations, including the United States, combine in formidable array and declare their intention to throw the weight of their power and influence against either side in the conflict which insisted upon a continuation of the war.

The peace of Europe, once disturbed by the imperialistic policy of Germany, is now threatened by the imperialistic aggression of France, and the opportunity to preserve the peace of Europe and of the world again presents itself through the forming of a coalition of nations opposed to wars and opposed to France's war-provoking attitude.

Such a coalition should embrace England, the Scandinavian countries, Russia, Central Europe and Spain. And if the United States were clear and free from unfortunate permanent alliances, it should be in a position to give its full moral support to such a temporary coalition for such a definite and desirable purpose.

If the United States should initiate the formation of such a coalition in an effort to secure the peace of Europe and the peace of the world, it need not, in doing this, sacrifice its independence and its isolation, but merely establish the fact that a sustained policy of independence and isolation does not prevent the occasional exercise of this nation's power and influence in world crises when the objects to be attained are wholly in harmony with this nation's humanitarian ideals and pacific purposes.

Using the American People's Money Without Consent

The Suggestion Is Impertinent as Well as Stupid

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

So-called statesmen in Washington are discussing from time to time the lending of public money to Europe and how MUCH they will lend. They are also discussing the advisability of having private banks lend the money, with the government, which is the people, GUARANTEEING the payment by Europe.

Under the second plan the bankers would make the big profit. Then the nations of Europe would be unable to pay, which is most likely, the PEOPLE would make good. That is a happy thought of the bankers. Not long ago they bought some Russian bonds, which a half idiot child should have known enough to let alone. They have those bonds on their hands now. Meanwhile they are planning to make the government pay that loss. They haven't yet succeeded.

Can you understand the impertinence that presumes to suggest taking the people's money or credit, to be used abroad, without specific authority of the people, based on a two-thirds vote of ALL the people? And even AFTER such a vote, by what right could the money of the minority be taken from them?

In Greece, more than two thousand years ago, they let the people decide by vote whether they would put certain moneys in their own pockets or use them for national defense. There has never been a suggestion in any country at any time that the people's money be taken to be given away.

How much do you think Europe would have lent us had we been in trouble in 1914? Ten billion dollars, the ten cents. A government that had suggested taxing French peasantry to lend us the money could not have lived twenty-four hours, and every Frenchman knows it.

The French government does not even tax the peasants NOW for the country's pressing needs.

Ford's Chinese Students

They Enter a "Real School of Civilization"

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Intelligent Chinese are on their way to Henry Ford's factory in Detroit. There they will learn the details of manufacture of tractors, trucks and other automobiles. Ford plans to start factories in China. If he pays men over there $6 a day—COMMON SENSE WILL PROBABLY PREVENT IT, for there is reason in everything—God only knows what the Chinese will think.

Meanwhile, Chinese that are coming to the American automobile factory are coming to the real school of civilization. China is a nation that carries heavy loads, including bricks, sand and mortar, on the backs of human beings as steep hills.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., told of a British street car line carrying passengers up a frightfully steep hill in a Chinese city. The owners of the car line were not permitted to carry freight. The Chinese come thought it would ruin them if the business of carrying the freight up hill on their backs were taken from them. And while passengers travel by the power of electricity up the side of the very steep hill they pass Chinese men and women struggling up under loads of iron, sand and cement, who can't even get a horse.

What China needs are factories, machinery and motorcars, after which will come good roads.

The young Chinese, fresh from Chinese universities, now landing at the Ford factory, will be welcome when they get back to China with the knowledge that increases human efficiency and diminishes human misery.

Fish Trust Decision

Supreme Court and This Community Are to Be Congratulated

We congratulate the Supreme Court and this community upon the decision of the Supreme Court upholding the verdict of the jury and the rulings of Judge Sanderson, presiding judge, at the trial of the alleged Fish Trust conspirators, Massachusetts. The court has now proved that there are teeth in the law which forbids the forestalling of necessities of life for the purpose of extortion. We have had on our national statute books a famous anti-trust law which was intended by Congress to provide for the imprisonment of men who attempted, for the purpose of extortion, monopolizing the necessities of life. Yet that law has been in existence for more than a generation and we know of no important convictions which have stood under it except convictions of workmen on a strike to better their living conditions. The law was not passed to operate against workmen on a strike. Indeed it was especially declared by the members of Congress, debating the passage of the law, that it was not intended, but our courts have deliberately construed it so that it applied to workmen while our prosecuting officers and our courts have seen to it that it never did apply to those great aggregations of wealth—instantly in their greed—which come together for the purpose of monopolizing a necessary of life and of making living more costly and more difficult.

We have not had an opportunity at this writing to examine the full text of the Supreme Court's decision, but if it is what it appears to be from the report, it ought to be a warning to gentlemen to keep out of Massachusetts when they go into such a scheme were charged against men involved in the Fish Trust.

MANY POSE AS GHOSTS OF GREAT

LONDON, Jan. 8.—"London is haunted by at least fifty daylight ghosts of Mary Magdalene and as many more of Cleopatra," declares Reverend Charles Gardiner, well-known London clergyman.

"These are not ordinary ghosts," says Mr. Gardiner. "They are human beings, but they believe they are the reincarnation of those famed women of purple past."

"Belief in reincarnation is decidedly on the increase. Cleopatra seems to be a popular reincarnation with a certain class of women, because some people are so eaten up with egotism that they would rather be someone else famous than no one at all."

"I know of about fifty women in London today who claim to be the reincarnation of Mary Magdalene. But forty-nine of them must be wrong. Mary Magdalene had seven devils, but we cannot imagine her to be fifty people in one."

"I know a woman who said that she was Lord Byron, and I have spoken to an actor who insisted that he was 'Bloody Mary.' These people believe that Queen Victoria was Alfred the Great, and Mr. Gladstone was formerly Cleopatra."

"There is no doubting their honesty. In most cases it is no pose, but only a form of self-deception."

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

No Attention Paid to Anonymous Communications

Aid Dail Eireann Editor Boston American: Mr. Jeremiah Carroll takes exception to the facts stated in an editorial of the Boston American.

"Houses are burned, trains derailed and men killed in their houses and the scene is far off." This is and reading for friends of Ireland, but Mr. Carroll thinks this is the work of patriots. What manner of self-determination is this, the work of the coward and the treacherous who are so afraid of the truth that they will lie for freedom?

This is not the fight of Emmet, O'Connell, Parnell and Redmond; nay, not the fight of Collins. It is the Irish people vote for a republic they know well I will be. Yes, the Irish people knew Collins; they trusted him, and he did for them that which the patriots always do for his people. When dire extermination was threatened by an overwhelming and vicious enemy Collins stood up for Ireland, brought his people to a new victory, a victory which will live and bring the Irish people into their own. Every friend of Ireland today must stand with Collins and the Dail Eireann. They are the men who will bring real or woe to Ireland.

Tragedy Known by Horse's Fear

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The astute-looking instinct of the horse which reveals to the animal the presence of a dead person in its vicinity was demonstrated at an inquest at Aldershot on Alfred Green, a caravan dweller.

George Alfred, son-in-law of Green, was leading a horse in a field when the horse stopped near a well, and Alfred had great difficulty in inducing it to pass. The well, which had been unused for many years, was afterward examined, and the body of Green was found there. The horse had passed the well many times before without showing signs of restiveness.

A verdict that Green committed suicide, while of unsound mind was recorded.

SEEN AND HEARD

SITTING on the bench of the Waltham District Court is pure amusement for JUDGE SAMUEL ABBOTT. The other day a man was before him charged with carrying a loaded revolver. The prisoner pleaded, saying that he had given up drinking and smoking and would lead a better life. JUDGE ABBOTT leaned over to the man and whispered: "Say, I have a little drop with me now; what do you say, will you have a drink?" But the defendant was not "Not on your life," he answered.

Scene—On a bench, Tremont street. Enter hasty traffic cop. Cop—"Just here for breakfast." Spectator (to himself) I pass these traffic officers have to eat nothing to keep up their work.

Cop—"Gimme a cup o' coffee and a chocolate éclair."

This week JUDGE JOSEPH H. CHURCHILL will attend his fifty-second year as judge of the Dorchester Municipal Court.

King's Chapel, on Tremont and School streets, does not save in riches with Trinity Church in New York, but it is the richest endowment church in Boston. Its present funds aggregate more than $1,000,000, and may reach $2,000,000 in a few years.

BISHOP EDWARD M. PARKER of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire is a busy man. During a recent period of seventy-two days he rode on fourteen different trolley lines, thirty-five railroad trains and a number of automobiles, besides walking two miles daily, in attending to his diocesan duties.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON LIGHT WAVES

By Garrett P. Serviss

"In my basement is a stand beneath the window on which is placed a bell-shaped drinking glass, and end up. This window is below the floor of a porch extending to the east. I have noticed that when the sun rises high enough so that the porch roof will just cast a small part of the rays entering the basement to shine through one of the curved edges of the glass only, casting an image on the floor, the lines of which are alternately black and white. As the curved edge breaks up the rays I do not understand why they diffuse in black and white.—L. O. Miller, Chicago."

YOU have an interesting case of the interference of light waves. The variation of thickness of the curved lip of the drinking glass and the varying angles at which the rays are incident upon it cause the light which have passed through the glass to emerge at different angles, so that they cross one another, some meeting in the same undulatory phase and others in opposite phases.

Those that combine in the same phase reinforce one another and produce an increase of brightness, while the others which meet in opposite phases extinguish one another, with the result that a dark line appears on the floor where the light waves fall at either set of waves always were present.

The phenomena arising from the interference of light waves have been utilized, as you have said, in many scientific investigations, with the aid of Michelson's instrument called the "interferometer." In one of its forms it furnished the inception of Hertz's theory of relativity by proving that the motion of the earth through the ether cannot be detected by any effect upon the light waves and to another form, when applied to the light of 100-mile telephones at Mount Washington, it has revealed the astonishing fact that the star Betelgeuse is 215,000,000 miles from earth and the star Antares, 400,000,000.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Peg Woffington Became the Idol of London

IN a dingy little house, within a square court in the heart of the poorest district of Dublin, one of the greatest actresses of all time first saw the light of day.

Margaret Woffington, affectionately known to the world as "Peg," Woffington, was the daughter of a mason and a washerwoman, and the space of twelve years she had become a famous actress.

When Peg was little and old she contributed to the family exchequer by handing over her proceeds from the sale of flowers and vegetables which she hawked around the streets of Dublin.

When she was ten years old she turned her activities from selling these products to performing acrobatic stunts in the streets and gathering pence from passers-by.

Soon after that this annual child made her part known on the stage in "The Beggar's Opera," a performance given by a company composed entirely of children.

Peg had a very fine figure, and appeared as a "breeches part," and then as "a breeches part."

Not only was her figure perfect, but she had a beautiful face, a ready wit and unlimited energy for her art.

Her success in Dublin, which ranked then with London as a dramatic centre, was so marked that a portrait of her was made of that portrait of her saying:

"She acted as Covent Garden would result in marriage, but this did not occur, although Garrick was devoted to her to the end. He called her 'Queen of Hearts'."

As dramatic as her life had been, so was her death. At the height of her power and popularity this brilliant woman was stricken while acting with what later developed into paralysis.

She lived for three years. When Peg Woffington died she was only forty years old, but she had stamped her name indelibly upon the record of the great artists of all time.
